The image shows two overlapping browser windows. The left window displays the main page of the Indiana IEDC website, titled "COVID-19 Updates & Resources". The right window shows a detailed article titled "Indiana Businesses in Action" with the sub-header "Updated December 9, 2020". The article text states: "Indiana businesses across the state are answering the call to support the global novel coronavirus (COVID-19) response effort. The state's manufacturers are leveraging their resources, supply chains and Hoosier workers to produce personal protection equipment (PPE) for health care providers, while business and community leaders have stepped up to source and donate additional materials. Here is a list of Indiana manufacturing companies sourcing and making PPE for their fellow Hoosiers:"

- The Acid Products-Prairie Packaging Company (LaPorte County), an independent chemical distributor specializing in the packaging and distribution of chemicals and blends, is now helping meet demand for hand sanitizer and hard surface cleaners. The company's Kingsbury facility is providing hand sanitizer to the state and also donated supplies to first responders in LaPorte County.
- After Action Medical and Dental Supply (Marion County), which was started in 2010 by a service disabled veteran, distributes products nationally to health care providers, the Veterans Affairs Medical System, and U.S. Department of Defense. The company is leveraging its supply chain to provide more than 400,000 nitrile gloves.
- Berry Global Group Inc. (Vanderburgh County), a global, Evansville-based Fortune 500 company, is accelerating production of plastic face shields and aims to soon reach production of 150,000 per week. The company will provide 30,000 face shields to the state, helping provide an added protection for first responders and medical personnel. Berry Global is also leveraging the support of Evansville-based suppliers for foam materials and elastic cutting.
